home at last.

After seven months, the Paris 1544th Transportation Company of the Illinois National Guard marched on home ground at 5 p.m. Tuesday welcomed by thousands of well wishers lining the one-block parade route.

"Thankful to God that they all came home nice and safe without losing a single one," said Mary Davis, a Paris resident who said she had several friends in the Paris unit.

About 25 miles east of Charleston, the Paris unit was the second of two Illinois National Guard units activated and the first to be redeployed as a complete unit to the Persian Gulf.

The 123 members of the Paris unit disembarked from their buses after a six-hour road trip from their demobilization in Campbell, Ky. Along with a police escort, the unit was led to downtown square by the Chrisman High School Band, the Paris High School Band and the American Legion.

The tremors of F-16s were felt in a fly-by honoring the unit's homecoming and preceded a memorial in the town square. Local politicians and the military offered their praises and congratulations for the units' service in the Persian Gulf, which logged about 350,000 miles of transportation duties.

"Our community thanks you for helping heal our wounds of war," said State Rep. Mike Weaver, R-Ashmore.

Capt. Brad Sinkler, a 1986 Eastern graduate said the Paris unit helped his unit's morale, and that it was an honor serving

"We completed over 4,000 missions and it made our job a lot easier knowing you were here (supporting the troops)," Sinkler said.

Rives pushes Senate to drop staff inquiry

By RYAN CUNNINGHAM
 News editor

In a meeting with President Stan Rives on April 15, the executive committee of the Faculty Senate was given the ultimatum by President Stan Rives to either quit its pursuit of Dan Thornburgh's reassignment or Rives would publicize any complaints he had against the former director of University Relations, said senate Chair David Carpenter.

Thornburgh, who is currently Eastern's director of special events, gave the Faculty Senate permission Monday to discuss at its regular meeting Tuesday his reassignment "within the context of the senate's constitution."

According to the senate constitution, the senate has a 90-day evaluation period before any major planning proposal, like Thornburgh's reassignment, can be sent to the Board of Governors.

Rives was unavailable for comment Tuesday.

Thornburgh, who was reassigned by Rives on Feb. 25 from the position of director of University Relations to director of special events, said in a letter to the senate Monday that he did not want to "impede on the senate's deliberation" by requesting that the senate go into executive session.

Thornburgh's duties as director of University Relations were given to Assistant Director of University Relations Art Tate and Vice President for Development Stephen Falk.

Carpenter said since Feb. 25, Tate has been consulting with Falk on a regular basis. He added that the change of duties has already been implemented, despite the fact that Thornburgh's reassignment of duties have yet to be formalized.

Giving the information unit over to Falk is incredibly dangerous,

• Faculty Senate will again examine graduate study. Page 5

Carpenter said. "The public has the right to the right information." He added that he has no complaint against Falk for the job he does in his capacity.

In a prepared statement Tuesday, Thornburgh said he did not "wish to add to the recent public turmoil surrounding the university. Therefore, at this time I will have no public comment on the Faculty Senate discussion and action taken Tuesday."

Vice President for Student Affairs Glenn Williams said he did not know about the ultimatum, but said the reassignment was a matter of judgment on the president's part. Williams added that he might have done things differently.

During its last regular meeting, the senate voted to go into executive session to discuss the details of the executive committee's April 15 meeting with Rives.

Carpenter said the reason for the meeting with Rives was to discuss the contested situation between Rives and Thornburgh.

Executive committee member Patricia Fewell said the reason for putting forth the motion to go into executive session was because she "felt they needed to make sure nothing was expoused that was embarrassing to us or Dan Thornburgh."

"We wanted to discuss it in an open manner without embarrassing any of the parties," said John Miller, who is also executive committee member.

The News' survey contradicts Student Senate referendum

 ANNA MURPHY

Contrary to the April 17 Student Senate election results, a survey conducted by The Daily Eastern News has found that 51 percent of those surveyed do not support President Stan Rives.

The survey polled 896 students, with 443 of those saying they have no support in Rives, and 334 (37 percent) saying they do support him. Of those who participated in the survey, 108 students (12 percent) did not respond to the question "Do you support Stan Rives?"

These numbers contradict the results of the Student Senate elections, which showed that 58 percent of the students who voted support the current administration, while 42 percent don't. Of the 1,301 students who voted in the Student Senate elections, 771 (12 percent) did not vote on the referendum.

The survey was conducted by polling a variety of classrooms, ranging from English, psychology and business to sociology and education. The survey was done over five days, and included 172 freshmen, 213 sophomores, 251 juniors and 260 seniors. Of those, 25 percent had voted in the April 17 election and 75 percent had not.

Kristy Koch, student body executive vice president-elect, said although the results of the election and The News' survey are inconsistent, the senate results are more valid.

"I think the elections are a truer account of what the students think," Koch said. "I don't put much weight in polls."

However, another discrepancy in the election results involves the percentage of students reported to have supported the "current administration." The Daily Eastern News reported correctly that 58 percent of the students supported the resolution. But, Koch was quoted in The News' and at the April 24 senate meeting as stressing that 72 percent of those who voted were in favor.

Gina Marshall, elections committee member, said she only gave out numbers of those who voted to the newspapers and never figured out the percentages, "assuming those numbers (72 percent) were right."

The question asked by the senate ballot read "Are you in favor of the Student Senate resolution offering the continued support of Eastern Illinois University's current administration?" This question was criticized by some Faculty Senate members as being misleading. In The News' survey, results show a contradiction in the percentage of students who did not support Rives (51 percent) and those who favored the senate resolution (52 percent) offering support of the administration.

David Carpenter, chair of the Faculty Senate, said the vote of the students reflected what the students felt about the senate's position on the current administration. "I think what the referendum did was reflect how the majority of the student voters view the position of the Student Senate ... and not specifically on Rives and Robeson."

Rives refused to comment on the results of the survey.

In addition to questions surrounding the support of Rives, the survey also asked students if they support Vic Robeson, the associate vice president for facilities, whose name has also been central in the investigation. In The News' survey, results show 52 percent of the students don't support Robeson, while 18 percent do and 30 percent did not vote.

Carpenter said the survey provides additional information about student opinion. "It provides an impartial, yet accurate, picture of how informed or uninformed the student body is about the serious problems at Eastern."

The survey also addressed how much or how little students are familiar with the

to the next regular meeting next Tuesday to ask the president questions about the Thornburgh issue and other issues that have clouded Rives' presidency this year. Member Luis Clay-Mendez voted against the motion, while members Richard Sylvia and John Craft abstained. Sylvia said he objected to any invitation that may be extended to Rives that would endorse any endorsement of an executive session, but did not vote because he had lost any perspective on the subject.

second semester freshman at Eastern, said he became more appreciative of the conveniences in the United States and especially his life. Staff Sgt. Carrie Martin, a senior before she was activated, said her experience was made easier with her husband Michael in the unit and "was overwhelmed with the crowd. It was really wonderful to know we had that kind of support." A Vietnam veteran Don Tichnor and a civil service worker in the Buzzard Building said "it feels great to be here and said to best sum up his experience, I appreciate my family more and of course my country."

current administration. Of the 896 polled, 92 percent knew who Rives was, while the other 8 percent said they either did not know who he was or answered incorrectly. In regard to Robeson, slightly more students - 48 percent - did not know who he was as compared with 47 percent who did. Koch said if so many students were not happy with Rives' leadership and did not support him, they should have come out and voted. "If someone really had a problem they would have come out and said so ... apparently they didn't feel as strongly." She added that it is time for the university to get past the whole investigation and forget about it. "It's time we come away from this," Koch said. Carpenter said that it wouldn't be in the university's best interest to forget. "I think it would be a mistake to forget what we have learned this year. You forget history and you repeat history." Carpenter did agree with Koch that the whole matter is now out of the Student Senate's and the Faculty Senate's hands. "However important the survey is or Student Senate referendum or Faculty Senate referendum, ultimately it will be up to the BOG (Board of Governors)," which is Eastern's governing body.

Fine Arts funding granted

By KELLY SEIFERT
City editor

Gov. Jim Edgar has released the remaining approved funds for the remodeling of Eastern's fine arts facility.

Board of Governors spokeswoman Michelle Brazell said the Governor's Spending Control Committee announced Monday that the remaining $160,317 requested by the BOG for the Quincy V. Doudna Fine Arts Center will be released to the university.

Brazell said the university has already been awarded a federal energy grant of $336,565 to partially finance the facility, and the state has now released its funds.

Brazell said the money will provide for the purchase and installation of a micro processor-based management system.

"This has been determined as one of his (Edgar's) priorities," Brazell said.

Including the approval of Eastern's funds, the governor announced the approval of a total of 76 capital projects equaling $18.7 million.

Ellen Feldhausen, spokeswoman for the governor's bureau of the budget, said 380 capital projects totaling $705.7 million were up for approval by the Spending Control Committee.

Brazell said the funding approved for the fine arts facility was one of the capital projects for the 1991 budget, and all of Eastern's projects have been approved, she added. However, it is up to Edgar and the Spending Control Committee to decide when to release these funds to the university, Brazell said.

"Some projects have gone a year to two years (before the money is released)," Brazell said.

Feldhausen said the Spending Control Committee consists of administration from the bureau of budget, the director of government operations, the director of central management services and Budget Director Joan Walters.

According to a news release from the governor's office, the largest amount of funds approved by the committee includes $2.55 million for the renovation of a heating plant at Southern Illinois University at Carbondale.

Auditor cites Eastern again for its payment of retirement

By JAMIE RILEY
Staff writer

For at least the fifth year in a row, Eastern has been cited for violating a state guideline by using state funds to pay for retirement benefits of some university employees.

A report issued by the auditor general's office said that in the fiscal year 1990 "the university provided subsidies of $413,800 ... for the retirement contributions for auxiliary enterprise revenue bond employees."

"These subsidies are violations of 'University Guidelines 1982,'" the report said.

The employees cited in the report include those whose salaries are paid in part or totally by student fees, said Board of Governors spokeswoman Michelle Brazell.

She said such a worker would include some athletic department employees, as well as food service employees and building service workers.

Brazell said that the BOG disagrees with the auditor general's office who said the retirement contributions are wrong. "These are all state employees," she said.

Brazell said Eastern is not the only university that violates the law. "All the BOG universities use the state funds to pay the retirement benefits," she said.

According to the auditor general's report, the BOG universities that are in violation of the law need to enact legislation to authorize continued state support of funding the retirement benefits.

"We have introduced bills into the legislature to get the language changed," Brazell said.

A response to the report issued by the BOG said, "It is the intention of the Board of Governors system to again pursue a legislative resolution to the issue of auxiliary enterprise employee retirement contributions during the 1991 spring session of the Illinois General Assembly."

"We recommend that the university refrain from using state appropriated funds to subsidize employer retirement contributions for auxiliary enterprise bond employees, unless such action becomes authorized by law," the report stated.

Past efforts by the BOG to introduce legislation have failed, said Brazell.

"This is not new. This is something we've been dealing with for several years and we're hoping to get the whole issue solved this year," Brazell said.

She added that the BOG will know if the legislation passed by June 30.

Three degree majors face elimination

By JENNIFER PIERCE
Administration editor

Three degree program options may be eliminated at Eastern because of low enrollment if the Board of Governors agrees with the initial recommendations of a university academic program review.

The three program options have been recommended for elimination in an annual preliminary academic program review, which is scheduled for final approval by the BOG in June.

According to the preliminary review, the options which may be eliminated include the graduate technology education, music theory-composition and German teacher certification options.

Foreign Languages Chair Herbert Breidenbach said he disagrees with the rationale behind the possible elimination of the German teacher certification option.

"It's not going to cost them anything (to keep the program)," Breidenbach said. "And if not, why get rid of it?"

Barbara Hill, dean of the College of Applied Sciences, and Vaughn Jaenike, dean of the College of Fine Arts, said they would not appeal the recommendations to eliminate the graduate technology education and the music theory-composition options.

Breidenbach said his program was placed on the potential elimination list because of its trend of low enrollment. However, he said that the advanced German classes required by the degree will still be offered, so no money will be saved by cutting the option.

"I'm not condemning the (recommendation) outright; I'm just saying it only makes sense if they'd be saving money," Breidenbach said.

The recommendations are part of Eastern's annual academic program review, in which all of the university's majors are evaluated. The evaluations are based on each program's perceived effectiveness as relative to cost and enrollment.

The preliminary review was submitted by Robert Kindrick, vice president for academic affairs, and Robert Pringle, BOG vice chancellor for academic affairs.

The initial recommendations made by Kindrick and Pringle have been sent to the department deans for their feedback, Kindrick said, and he and Pringle will make final recommendations to the BOG June 20.

"I'm waiting now for some responses from the deans," Kindrick said. "So far I have not heard from any of them."

Student body paying for executive raise

Last week Eastern's Student Government voted to approve an amendment that would add a new bylaw to provide a full tuition waiver to senate executives.

Those executive positions are student body president, executive vice president, financial vice president, Board of Governors representative and Student Senate speaker.

Editorial The full tuition waiver amounts to $1,572 for each executive. The executives are currently paid $4.25 an hour for up to 40 hours per month, which totals $170 per month or $1,360 per year.

The executives' payroll comes out of the Student Senate budget which is approved by the Apportionment Board.

In an interview with The News Student Government Advisor David Milberg said the idea of a tuition waiver came about while talking with other college student government advisers at a recent conference. According to Milberg, most schools provide tuition waivers for their executives.

The waiver will come from the $240 in student fees that we pay each semester, Milberg said, and no money used for senate payrolls would be returned to the AB for additional programming, as was the practice with unused senate allocations previously.

When an administration makes a change, tries to fix an existing practice or policy, the first and most basic question we must ask is, "Is it broke?"

Is the current practice of paying executive officers outdated, inefficient or otherwise wasteful.

Is it broke? Should we fix it?

We think the current practice of paying senate executives has worked acceptably and should be maintained.

We also are not sure we're willing to pay for their $212 per year raise.

The News has been my best teacher

I have just a few more things I'd like to say before you guys kick me outta here.

For three years I've occupied this corner of Page Four once every week. Some weeks have been good and some haven't been so good. But more importantly, I've also been on the staff of The Daily Eastern News for four years. Because of that, I'll be leaving here with an education that only about 30 other people were fortunate enough to receive.

I'm not discounting what all of my professors have taught me in the classroom, but I must admit that I've learned more in this newsroom than I have in any of Eastern's classrooms. That's because what I've learned in here is practical – I can apply it to every situation anywhere I go.

Firstly, more than anything, working at this newspaper has taught me to try putting myself in the other person's shoes once in a while. Until my best friend taught me to do that, I'll admit I had a tendency to be ignorant toward other people's feelings and beliefs and selfish of my own. Listening to other people's feelings and beliefs can shed some much-needed light on your own. And that's not a principle that works only in a newsroom – as long as you make an effort, it works everywhere else, too.

As far as that's concerned in a news sense, it's something the staff of The Daily Eastern News believed in passionately. That's especially true in this past publication year, our 75th, which I also believe was one of our best in history. If there's one thing I want to emphasize, it's that we gave everyone a fair chance. That doesn't always work in reverse.

Secondly, on The News 75th anniversary, we put the motto "Tell the Truth and Don't Be Afraid" back on the front-page flag. Since the early 1930s, that motto was the spirit of the newspaper to the hundreds of students who have contributed to it since 1915. It vanished from the front page in 1975 because of a newspaper trend to remove mottos from the front page. Well, we put back there this year and I hope the only trend is that it stays.

"Tell the Truth and Don't Be Afraid" served as our guiding light this year. And that is exactly what we did. Now it's just a matter whether you, our readers, choose to accept it.

Thirdly, regrets aren't worth anyone's time – I learned that from my best friend too. The other night, I asked another friend who is about to graduate with me what he would do differently if he could do it (college) all over again. He said he really wouldn't do anything differently; I actually had a whole laundry list of things. Then I realized how foolish that was – it's not like there's a whole lot we can do to change any of that now.

Sure, there are things I would have done differently. But I didn't do them then and I can't change them now. I can, however, remember what I did do and do what's best the next time it happens. My own personal motto for that is "Failure to Move Forward Today Will Only Put You Further From Your Destination Tomorrow." So when seniors cross that stage next Saturday, grab that diploma and keep on walking. Don't look back. What memories of this place that you do cherish will follow you wherever you go.

Fourthly, to the friends I've made here, especially in this newsroom: I can honestly say that you're among the best friends I've ever had.

Goodbye for now.

Your turn

D.T. will be missed by all at Eastern

While the recently announced early retirement of Dan Thornburgh will provide both he and his wife with some long-postponed relaxation, the news represents a major loss for Eastern Illinois University. As the chairman of the Faculty Senate said in one of your news stories, Thornburgh is an "honorable man" – a commodity in all too short a supply.

Moreover, D.T. (as his students fondly address him) personifies the spirit of EIU – faculty who take a real and continuing interest in their students and combine the roles of career counselor, personal adviser and friend. To even attempt to quantify the good that D.T. has done for his students over his career at EIU is an impossible task. His accomplishments on campus, though no less important, are easier to enumerate.

Nearly singlehandedly, D.T. is responsible for the creation of one of the university's most popular and successful majors – community journalism, fighting for it for years over the objections of critics and naysayers. He is that all-too-rare administrator, one that is not afraid of hiring talented and creative people to serve under him. It was D.T. who brought EIU a man who ranks as one of its most talented and dedicated academics – Dave Reed (chairman of the Journalism department).

Through his community activities, his ongoing contact with alumni, his important research work on the career of a distinguished journalist Curtis MacDougall, and not least of all his impeccable reputation for honesty, D.T. merely by his presence was EIU public relations. His reputation and openness assured EIU friendly access in countless newsrooms around the state.

There is an old song, popular at our days at EIU, whose refrain included the lines, "You don't know what you've got until you lose it." Regrettably, EIU will learn that lesson in March of 1992 brings to a close a career that will surely rank among the legends of Lord, Anfinson, Coleman, Tingly, Lantz, and Booth.

The money pit

Dear editor:

It all began Parent's Weekend when the ceiling, which had been slowly eroding away in the bathroom, finally collapsed on to our guests – good ol' Mom and Dad.

This only added to the roach and ant problem which we have been plagued with since last summer. So we figured that we would get someone in from the office to repair our lack of ceiling.

We called in October, we called in November, and December and January and still no one came. We were given a glimmer of hope early in December when we were informed someone would come to look at the ceiling in the morning. So we waited and the next morning, no one showed up. The matter was only recently taken care of while we were away over Spring Break. We came back to a nice new ceiling which took them over six months to get to.

But these problems alone did not prompt us to write to you. When the hot water heater felt it had not been given enough attention and decided to empty its contents into our closet, we felt enough was enough. Even as we write this, the fans are blowing and so are our tempers. We are merely requesting that the administration reconsider its purchase of Regency and offer a little more assistance to the students, like us, who are bearing the brunt of their poor investments.

Senate questions costs to utilize study

By MATT CAMPBELL
Staff writer

Dean of Graduate Education Larry Williams addressed questions Tuesday from the Faculty Senate, some of them concerning where funds would come from to implement the recently completed Study on Graduate Education.

The study contains 133 recommendations, including one to increase funds to the Graduate School Office to pay for staff increases and another to allow departments more flexibility in the stipends they may offer graduate assistants, all of which are designed to improve the quality of graduate education at Eastern.

A major concern among senate members was where the funding for the various recommendations would come from. "There will be no new dollars this year," Williams said. Robert Kindrick, vice president for academic affairs, told him.

"We don't even have the proper funding for the new undergraduate core curriculum, and here it looks like we're going to go on with this (Study on Graduate Education)," Carpenter added.

Williams said the recently released Study on Graduate Education came about when the earlier Study on Undergraduate Education appeared to touch upon some aspects related to the graduate education program.

President Stan Rives and Kindrick commissioned the graduate study, which Williams says was completed and sent to Rives and Kindrick first.

"I didn't know what was in it until I saw it," Williams said. In the interests of creating an objective study, Williams said he was excluded from the recommendation process and only spoke with the study's steering committee once.

The three groups reviewing the study are the Council on Graduate Studies, the Council of Deans and the Faculty Senate. The senate is guaranteed a 90-day review period of the study by their constitution because the study is considered a major planning proposal.

In the implementation of the recommendations, the Council on Graduate Studies carries the most weight, Williams said. "What it (Council on Graduate Studies) votes on becomes policy," Williams added.

In other business, Faculty Senate Chair David Carpenter, associate professor of English, was reelected as the group's chair and senate member Gary Wallace, professor of geology/geography, was elected vice chair at Tuesday's meeting.

Senate member Anne Zahlan, an associate professor of English, was elected to the position of Faculty Senate secretary.

New members will take seats on senate

By CHARLENE BURRIS
Staff writer

Nineteen newly elected Student Senators will be seated at the Student Senate's year-end meeting Wednesday.

Senate will be meeting at 7 p.m. in the Tuscola-Arcola room of the Martin Luther King Jr. University Union.

Student Body President-elect, Martha Price, will take over the position currently held by Dan Riordan who will present his State of the University address at the meeting.

Executive Vice President-elect, Kristy Koch will be attending, as well as Financial Vice President-elect Steve Macaluso and Board of Governors Representative-elect Brian Riordan.

In addition to the executives, 15 senators will be seated in one of the three districts.

Senators who will be seated in the at-large district are: Jill Pfeiffer, Blake Wood, Eric M. Glenn, Lillian Marks, Amy Smith and Karen Lambke.

Seated in the off-campus district will be senators: Tom Puch, Dana Wulff, Tony Wielt, Dave Kinsey and Dan Kirk.

Senators to be seated in the residence hall district are: Jenny Rank, Jeff Walldhoff, Dave Waller and Shelly White.

A member of the senate will also be elected by the senate at large, for the position of Speaker of the Senate. The new speaker will replace Koch.

Financial Vice President Ken Wake said, "The senate will vote to approve the Apportionment's Board bylaw changes." The bylaws were presented to the board at last week's meeting.

In wrapping up the year, the senate will hear final reports from the chairs, Wake said.

After 34 years of service Coleman set to take leave

By MARCI SWEATMAN
Staff writer

Wayne Coleman, who has been called "one of the most well-rounded faculty members" by a peer in his department, is retiring after 34 years of service to Eastern.

"He is quite involved in outside activities," said Howard Nelms, professor of industrial technology.

After coming to Eastern in 1957, Coleman was the first industrial technology faculty to be hired by then-president Quincy Doudna.

Coleman accomplished various things while at Eastern. He was the former Dean of Technology and the program leader and developer of the industrial technology program. He belonged to numerous professional organizations and received the outstanding educators' award three years ago.

Charles Watson, professor of industrial technology, said, "He added academic and professional integrity along with the professionalism that he instilled in his students."

Clifford Strandberg, professor of industrial technology, said, "I've known him (Coleman) for 26 years; I know him better than my own brother."

Because of Coleman's dedication to teaching, he will be missed by his colleagues and his students.

Coleman and his wife, Shirley, plan to retire to northern Wisconsin, where Coleman said, "It is my hope to be able to do a little consulting work in the quality sciences, rest a lot, tease a few fish, work in my workshop, help my wife with her genealogy research and enjoy watching nature's wonders all around us."

Coleman said he enjoys the students. "It is always such a pleasure to learn of the successes of our graduates and to feel that maybe I had some small part in contribution to it."

14 contestants prepare for Lincoln Trail contest

By BOYD BRADSHAW
Staff writer

Fourteen contestants will vie for the title of Miss Lincoln Trail at the Miss Lincoln Trail Scholarship Pageant at Eastern on Sunday.

Assistant director Gary Bolen said the 14 contestants signed up to participate in the pageant are competing for the privilege of advancing to the Miss America Pageant later in the year.

"The participants will be judged on talent, swimsuit and evening gowns on the day of the pageant. There will also be a mock interview done prior to the pageant that the contestants will also be judged on," Bolen said.

Bolen said the Miss Lincoln Trail Pageant is the final of the three preliminaries held in the state.

The Miss Lincoln Trail Pageant will be held at 2 p.m. in the Martin Luther King Jr. University Union Grand Ballroom. Ticket sales will be Wednesday through Friday from 11 a.m. to 4 p.m. in the union. Tickets are $3 for general admission and $5 for reserved seats. Tickets will also be sold at the door.

The scholarship pageant is sponsored by Delta Chi fraternity, which in 1973, became the first social fraternity to sponsor such a pageant.

Ted Fairlamb, who is in charge of ticket sales, said the pageant will have some local contestants.

"This will be a great study break," Fairlamb said. "Currently, there are three girls from Eastern, and four more girls from the Charleston area. Some of these girls have participated in other major pageants."

United Nations pledges support

ZAKHO, Iraq (AP) — The United Nations raised its blue-and-white flag in northern Iraq on Tuesday, preparing to take over a U.S.-built camp for Iraqi Kurdish refugees. Thousands of refugees began streaming homeward.

Allied officials also hinted there could be a further expansion of the security zone for the hundreds of thousands of Kurds who fled to the Turkish border after Saddam Hussein crushed a Kurdish uprising in the wake of the Persian Gulf War.

A U.S. source, speaking on condition of anonymity, said any part of Iraq north of the 36th parallel would be considered potential territory for the allied-protected zone.

"This is a historic day," said U.S. Army Maj. Gen. Jay Garner, as United Nations special envoy Steffan De Mistura officially opened a humanitarian center for displaced Kurds near the allied-built tent city at

The move is seen as an intermediate step toward the United Nations assuming responsibility for the camp itself.

Meanwhile, a cavalcade of overloaded cars, trucks, wagons, buses and tractors began descending from the primitive mountain camps on the Turkish border, heading for the Zakho area.

Just as allied planners had hoped, many of the returning Kurds drove past the U.S.-built camp and went directly to their homes in Zakho. Those heading to the tent city included residents of towns outside the allied security zone and those whose homes were damaged.

At the United Nations, the United States, Britain and France indicated Tuesday that they believed the U.N. secretary-general should press Iraq to permit a U.N. police force to protect the Kurds and replace the 9,000 allied troops in northern Iraq.

The secretary-general, Javier Perez de Cuellar, was non-committal. Iraq has denounced the proposal as a violation of its sovereignty.

The U.N. sanctions committee deferred action on Iraq's requests to regain $1 billion in frozen bank assets worldwide. It also wants to sell about $1 billion worth of oil to finance purchase of food, medical supplies and humanitarian aid.

The economic sanctions were imposed on Iraq after its Aug. 2 takeover of Kuwait.

Also on Tuesday: Turkish President Turgut Ozal accused Turkey's Western allies of not doing enough to help Kurdish refugees on the Turkish border, saying he wants more than "just oral support."

Media at risk for reporting names

EDWARDSVILLE (AP) — News organizations that disclose the name of a woman accused of risking the spread of AIDS through prostitution could be sued for violating a state law ensuring privacy for AIDS victims, a judge ruled.

Madison County Judge Edward Ferguson issued the ruling Monday in response to a TV station's query about the case involving an Alton woman.

KSDK in St. Louis, just across the Missouri line, had asked if it could legally broadcast the woman's name, which has been widely reported since she was charged April 23.

Ferguson said the AIDS Confidentiality Act — a civil law — protects the woman from having her name publicized, even though she has been charged with a crime.

The privacy law forbids authorities from naming anyone who has tested positive for the AIDS virus. It is designed to encourage people to get AIDS tests without fear of being stigmatized.

State's Attorney Bill Haine said the privacy law does not apply to criminal cases and he complained the ruling creates an unhealthy "tier of secrecy" in the legal system. He said he would seek a legal opinion from Attorney General Roland Burris.

Madison County Public Defender John Rekowski said after the ruling that the woman may file civil complaints against news organizations that named her.

The woman was charged after soliciting an undercover Alton police officer when she offered to perform oral sex for $25. She is accused of attempted criminal transmission of the AIDS virus for continuing to sell sex after learning she had tested positive.

KSDK general manager Ed Piette said he thought other news organizations were too quick in disclosing the woman's identity.

But Robert Hoemeke, an attorney who advises the Belleville News-Democrat, said the media were within their rights.

"The First Amendment protects the rights of a newspaper to use the name of this person, who has been charged with a crime, regardless of the state law," he said.

coaching partner when the two were at Southern Illinois.

"At times we have shown that we can play good defense, pitching and hitting," Jones said. "But there have been other times when we have broken down momentarily."

The Illinois lineup, which has four freshmen in it, features four players who have the tendency to hit the ball out of the park with regularity. As a team, the Illini have hit 49 home runs with freshman third baseman Scott Spiezio pacing the team with 10.

First baseman Bubba Smith and catcher Sean Mulligan have hit nine apiece and leftfielder Larry Sutton has smacked seven roundtrippers.

"We have good power," Jones said. "There are four players that can hit it out at any time and we can rely on that power."

Sutton leads the team with a batting average (.436), on base percentage (.545), hits (58) and runs batted in (39). Mulligan, who was a pre-season All-American, is second on the team in hitting at .342 and is two home runs shy of the Illinois career home run mark.

"They are probably a little bit more explosive than most of the teams that we have played this year," Callahan said. "Guys like Mulligan and Sutton are probably some of the better hitters in the Midwest, if not the entire country."

The Panthers' will combat the Illini lineup with their four conference pitchers. Callahan said that Steve Lemke, Mike Connor, Frank Jablonski, and Mike Kundrat will all see mound time.

"What our pitchers have to do is go out and throw how they are capable of throwing," Callahan said. "All four have proven that they can pitch against good teams. I don't think we have to change or do anything differently in our approach to Illinois."

Wednesday's contests also feature an interior battle between the two teams' coaches. Callahan's first college coaching job was as an assistant to Jones at Southern and Rich Campbell, Callahan's assistant, pitched for SIU during those years. However, both coaches downplay any rivalry.

"It is always a pleasure to coach against Callahan and Campbell," Jones said. "It is really more of a great friendship than a rivalry. The only time there is a rivalry is when we play each other."

"You can call him my mentor, boss, and idol," Callahan said. "Sometimes coaches and teams get into rivalries more than they should. It would be nice to beat Itch twice and it would be nice to beat Illinois twice. We are just going up there to try and win two."

Marlow named to All-Academic team

By MICHAEL KEOGH
Staff writer

Eastern wrestler Dave Marlow has been named to the first-ever National Wrestling Coaches Association All-Academic team.

Marlow was one of 50 wrestlers across the nation to gain this dubious honor. Ten were named to the first and second squads, while Marlow was one of 30 that received honorable mention.

To be eligible, a wrestler must have been an NCAA National Championship qualifier, a top-four placer in regional competition, or have a winning record in dual-meet competition. The student-athlete must also attain a grade point average of 3.00 on a 4.00 scale.

Marlow advanced to the third round of the national tournament at the 142-pound class, winning three matches. Marlow, a junior marketing major has a 3.33 GPA.

"Wrestling helps my studies because I can't go out much, so I just go to the library and study," said Marlow. "I also miss class a lot because of wrestling, so I can't let myself get behind."

During the season Marlow does not have much free time, but he still manages to enjoy himself. "Next year I hope to place in the NCAA," said Marlow who finished last season with a record of 31-16.

"David has been rewarded for his performances on the mat, so it's nice to see him rewarded for his classwork, too," said head coach Ralph McCausland. "David is definitely a team leader. He's not real vocal, but he leads by example in the classroom, and on the mat."

Bulls beat Knicks to win series

NEW YORK (AP) — Chicago completed a 3-0 playoff sweep of the New York Knicks as Michael Jordan scored 14 of his 33 points during a 29-11 second-half spurt that carried the Bulls to a 103-94 victory Tuesday night.

The Bulls, with their 10th consecutive win over the Knicks and seventh straight this season, advanced to the second round of the Eastern Conference playoffs against the Philadelphia 76ers, who swept the Milwaukee Bucks. The Knicks, who led by as many as 12 points in the first half but by only one at halftime, had a 60-57 advantage when John Paxson started an 8-0 Chicago run with a jumper. A layup by Jordan gave the Bulls the lead for good, 61-60, with 9:01 left in the third quarter.

The Bulls extended the margin to 86-71 with 10:04 left in the game on a jumper and free throw by Jordan, who relied on jump shots rather than his characteristic swooping moves to the basket.

Jordan had nine baskets on jumpers, four on layups and one dunk, while teammate Scottie Pippen took over the flamboyant role with five layups and five dunks to account for all but one of his 21 points.

Kiki Vandeweghe and Patrick Ewing scored 20 points each and Gerald Wilkins 15 for the Knicks, who couldn't match last year's playoff feat of beating Boston in the first round after falling behind 2-0 in the best-of-5 series.

Koehl suffered the loss, despite only giving four hits and two runs in eight innings. She struck out seven and walked four. The loss dropped her to 14-7 on the season.

The game was scoreless through seven, before Southern's All-Conference third baseman Mary Jo Firnbach hit a two-out two-run triple in the eighth inning.

Eastern's third leading hitter, Coli Turley, was back in the Panther line-up. Turley just returned from Australia where she competed with the United States' silver medal team in the International Softball Federal Junior World 18-under tournament.

The U.S. lost 1-0 in the championship game to Japan. They beat Japan earlier in the tournament.

Turley was hitting .328 for Eastern before her departure.

Eastern will wrap its season with a 2 p.m. home double-header on Wednesday against St. Louis and another 2 p.m. double-header on Friday with Northeastern Illinois at home. The Panthers will travel to Wichita, Kan., for the Gateway Conference tournament a week from Thursday.

ing to work it out to get everyone on."

That leaves in question the eligibility of Western Kentucky for conference championships. The winner of the Gateway's regular season title receives an automatic bid to the I-AA playoffs.

"Some of the things that will be discussed (Thursday) will be their eligibility up until the point that they're able to play the other members," Ryan said. "You may very well be in one of the situations where, for one or two years, there may have to be designated conference games. So let's say they play only five of the seven (Gateway teams), the conference would designate two of their non-conference games to count as their conference games."

"But then we still have to discuss whether or not that would make them eligible for the championship. Most of them have a lot of holes, and it's going to need some juggling amongst other institutions to get them on. But it can be done."

The Gateway, which currently operates a 10-team women's conference too, will switch to a football-only league in June 1992. At that time, eight of the 10 women's teams will switch to the Missouri Valley Conference, which decided in November to sponsor a women's league.

Eastern and Western Illinois will join the Mid-Continent in women's athletics in May 1992, when the league begins its women's operation.

Ryan added that the Gateway Conference was not originally planning to expand to eight teams, but once the topic came up, the two parties involved decided to explore the possibility.

"I wouldn't call it a goal," Ryan said. "We were initially kicking the subject around and Western Kentucky had showed an interest, and both of us actively pursued it."

"One of the things that helped has been — up until the break-up of women's sports, it had always been a criteria if you're in the Gateway, you're in for all sports. So the formula was not conducive for Western Kentucky to be a part of it because their women were already in a league.

"Now that the Gateway will not exist for women, it becomes a football only," he said. "Now it's a viable vehicle for Western Kentucky."

Western Kentucky finished last year's season at 2-8. After jumping out to a 2-0 record, the Hilltoppers lost to the top ranked team in the nation three straight weeks — Eastern Kentucky, Middle Tennessee State and Youngstown State.

WKU last appeared in the I-AA playoffs in 1988, when it advanced to the quarterfinals after defeating Western Illinois in the first round. The Hilltoppers were ranked in the Top 20 the following year, but a loss to Eastern dropped them out of the playoff race and gave the Panthers a bid.

Western Kentucky expected to join Gateway

Youngstown State could be next Mid-Continent member

By CHRIS BOGHOSSIAN
Staff writer

Youngstown State University could become the fourth Ohio-based institution to compete in the Mid-Continent Conference.

And the Panthers could be playing against the Penguins in most sports as soon as next fall, Eastern Athletic Director Mike Ryan said Tuesday.

When the Mid-Continent officials meet for their spring meeting on May 15-16, the main topic of discussion will be the addition of Youngstown State to their league, and Ryan said he fully expects the Division I independent to be invited.

"That (meeting) will address specifically Youngstown," Ryan said. "That will be the only institution voted upon in terms of expansion. There may be other schools discussed, but that's the only institution on which we will be voting."

"There was a committee that was put together, visited the campus, spent a day there, looked at the facilities, went over budgets, talked to coaches. We will hear the report from that committee, discuss it amongst ourselves, and then vote. I would anticipate that Youngstown will be admitted to the conference."

Cleveland State and first-year member Akron currently compete with Eastern, Western Illinois, Northern Illinois, Valparaiso, Wisconsin-Green Bay, Northern Iowa and Illinois-Chicago in the nine-team Mid-Continent.

Northern Iowa, though, is moving to the Missouri Valley Conference, while the Mid-Continent is adding Wright State University — from Dayton, Ohio — in July. Youngstown State, located in Youngstown, Ohio, then would be the 10th member of the league.

"If they are admitted, they would become eligible for all sports immediately in terms of championship competition with the exception of soccer, which they don't have but have considered having and probably will, but more importantly basketball," Ryan said. "They will be worked into the 1992-93 basketball schedule."

"All the other sports, it's just an open conference championship. They'll show up for cross country, they'll show up for track, they'll show up for tennis and swimming. It's anticipated that the schedule will be juggled in baseball. It may not be possible."

Discussion of adding a 10th member came up earlier this year when UNI decided to jump to the MVC. The Mid-Continent received applications from Youngstown State and two other Midwest independents.

"We received materials from Missouri-Kansas City and Wisconsin-Milwaukee," Ryan said. "Neither one of those two met the criteria that were put in place."

"We heard rumblings that if we made it known that we were going to expand, we knew that Youngstown would apply. We weren't sure if the other institutions would apply. If Wisconsin-Milwaukee were a viable candidate, I think it could make for an interesting vote if we had to pick one of the two. Missouri-Kansas City was just not a factor."

Gateway Conference presidents will vote Thursday on whether to extend an invitation to Western Kentucky University to join the league as its eighth member, Eastern Athletic Director Mike Ryan said.

Ryan added that after the tele-conference discussion between Gateway officials, athletic directors and presidents of the seven current members in the conference, he fully expects the presidents to vote in favor of extending the invitation.

"There was a committee that took a special visit to Western Kentucky, went through the program, talked to them about their commitment to football, etc.," Ryan said Tuesday. "We will be hearing the report of that committee, then there will be a discussion."

"The presidents of the football institutions will vote, and (Commissioner Patty Viverito) hopes she'll be able to get back to Western Kentucky some time on Thursday to let them know the outcome, which I fully anticipate will be unanimous to extending an invitation." Viverito was in Chicago Tuesday and could not be reached.

Eastern currently competes with Northern Iowa, Western Illinois, Indiana State, Southwest Missouri State, Illinois State and Southern Illinois in the Division I-AA Gateway. The Hilltoppers, whose campus is in Bowling Green, are currently an independent in football but compete in the Sun Belt Conference in their other programs.

"Our administration has given us the approval to respond affirmative to an invitation," Western Kentucky AD Jim Feix said from his home in Bowling Green Tuesday night. "We already let the commissioner know that we're very, very anxious about the possibilities."

"We've been playing several of those schools for a number of years, and I've become friends with other athletic directors. We've been interested in getting our football team in a conference somewhere. Independent status is real difficult to schedule, and it will get more expensive, I'm afraid."

If the presidents vote in favor of inviting Western Kentucky into the league and the Hilltoppers accept, Ryan said that they could become eligible for competition in the league as soon as 1992.

"They're obviously not in a position for 1991, but they are working with as many of the institutions as possible to try and get immediate games," Ryan said. "We will be discussing this (at the Gateway meeting) May 21-22, and that will be one of our topics — trying to work them into the master schedules as fast as possible."

Eastern won't have to worry about switching their schedule around to work in Western Kentucky, though. The Panthers and the Hilltoppers already have guaranteed dates until 2001, while Feix said that three other Gateway teams are on his school's 1991 schedule.

"From our standpoint, there's no impact on us because we have a long-term contract going past 2000 with Western Kentucky," Ryan said. "So we're already on a schedule. But we were the only institution year in and year out that was playing them, so they're try-

Softballers drop pair at Southern Illinois

By KEN RYAN
Staff writer

Not even the strong arm of pitcher Chris Koehl or the hot hitting of the Gateway Conference Player of the Week, Tammy Stice, could cool off the Salukis of Southern Illinois on Tuesday.

Southern's softball squad took both games of the conference double-header, winning the opener by the score of 9-1 and taking the nightcap 2-0 in eight innings.

The Salukis have now won a school record 23 straight games. They have a 35-3 overall record and are 12-0 in the Gateway Conference.

In the first game, Southern took advantage of three Eastern errors and out hit the Panthers 14-3 to come away with the victory.

They scored three unearned runs in the third inning off of Koehl, a junior righthander, and added a pair of runs in the fourth, fifth and sixth inning off of senior Penni Key.

Koehl pitched the first three innings, allowing three unearned runs on four hits, while striking out seven batters and walking none.

Eastern scored its lone run in the sixth inning, when senior Carrie Voisin led off with a triple; her ninth of the year. She scored, one out later, on a ground out by Stice.

Stice's RBI boosted her team lead to 32.

Stice was just voted the Gateway Player of the Week for the period of April 22-28. She had 11 hits in 22 at-bats for a .500 average during the week and also knocked in eight runs and scored four times in eight games.

The sophomore shortstop from Casey, had two doubles and one triple for a .682 slugging percentage.

"Tammy had a sensational week," Eastern head coach Kathy Arendsen said. "When we needed a clutch hit, she came through. She's been that way all season."

Stice is Eastern's leading hitter this season with a .382 batting average and has 11 doubles, three home runs and a .593 slugging percentage.

Angie Mick of Southern picked up the victory in the opener. She tossed a complete game three-hitter to improve her record to 16-2 on the year and is 8-0 in the Gateway.

Mick was voted the Gateway Pitcher of the Week last week.

In the second game, the Panthers out hit the Salukis 7-4, but could not put any runs up on the board.

Mick picked up her second victory of the day, pitching the final 2 1/3 innings. She struck out three Eastern batters and did not allow a walk.

Panthers look to continue roll at U of I

Eastern's baseball Panthers, who have won 11 of their last 12 games, look to continue their roll and possibly hit the .500 mark, when they invade Champaign Wednesday for a double-header with the Illinois Fighting Illini.

The games, which were originally scheduled as a single contest, get under way at 2 p.m. at Proano Stadium.

The Panthers, who have raised their record to 26-28, haven't beaten the Illini in the three years that Panther coach Dan Callahan has been here; a string of five games.

"What has been frustrating the last three years is that we have never beaten them," Callahan said. "We have been close in four of the five games and played pretty well but just couldn't get over the hump."

Illinois has had its share of problems this season. The Illini are 19-28 under first year coach Itchy Jones, Callahan's former
